As the founder and president of HR Resolutions, Karen Young delivers a refreshing approach to HR consulting – helping professionals and businesses successfully manage their human resources by creating a drama-free HR environment. Karen presents engaging seminars that help attendees walk away with actionable next-steps for improving their workplace.

Working within HR often presents its professionals with delicate situations and difficult decision-making. However, Karen strongly believes HR can be just as fun and rewarding provided your department has the right tools & knowledge to handle the day-to-day challenges that arise when operating a growing business.

Leveraging her extensive industry experience of over 25 years and drawing upon her book, Stop Knocking on My Door, Karen helps HR professionals navigate these challenges that inevitably come with hiring, training, workplace culture, performance evaluations, terminations, regulations and more. By sharing her passion for all things HR, she helps audiences recognize the importance of their job and how a refreshed perspective and unified plan can make all the difference.

With a reputation of delivering fun, humorous, and extremely informative presentations, Karen is an excellent choice for motivating HR professionals and teaching them the tools necessary to manage a successful workplace environment. Karen’s seminars are ideal if you are a small business owner, a staff member with “accidental HR” responsibilities or challenges, or a manager or supervisor interested in staying up-to-date on the latest HR issues.

“I have had the pleasure of attending several presentations led by Karen Young. Karen’s ability to deliver a top notch program starts with her deep knowledge and years of experience as an HR Professional. Karen’s HR expertise and “real world” experiences allow her to quickly and easily connect with her audience. Karen stays on target with her message reinforcing key learning points which can be quickly implemented in the workplace.”

— Andy Sholly, PHR Chapter President HRP Professionals of Central PA
